Marissa Streit, CEO of PragerU, was born in Los Angeles and moved to Israel at a young age, where she completed her primary education and served in military intelligence unit 8200 of the Israeli Defense Force.

PragerU is the media network that sued Google and YouTube for censoring our patriotic "5-Minute Videos."

When the Big Tech giants realized our videos had been viewed millions of times per day, they censored some of our most popular episodes, even one about "The Ten Commandments." And when our legal team asked why, they said our content was "unsuitable for young people."

HR 8404 Respect for Marriage Act will establish a federal public policy that gender is irrelevant even in an obvious gender-based human relationship—marriage. Such a public policy will extend far beyond same-sex marriage. If gender is “irrelevant” in marriage, then it will be “irrelevant in sports and private separate gender facilities.

Object to the drag queen indoctrinating your child in school? Too bad. This public policy will make you look like a bigot, much like if someone objected to having a person of color speak to the class. LGBTQ will be placed in the same protected category as race.

The (Dis)Respect for Marriage Act, HR 8404, is so close to passing. All Democrats will vote yes, and we count at least four Republican senators who indicated they will support this bill.

Thomas Jefferson stated, “We do not have government by the majority. We have government by the majority who participate.”

John F. Kennedy stated, “The ignorance of one voter in a democracy impairs the security of all.”

David Barton is the source of the following.

A national news organization has described him as “America’s historian,” and Time Magazine called him “a hero to millions – including some powerful politicians.”

A lot of people are saying we really need a revival. We've got to have some kind of revival in America. We're praying for a revival, and that is a terrific, wonderful prayer, but I don't think it's going to be answered the way we expect it to be answered

If I talk to a group and I say, "Okay guys, who's the president of the United States," they can all tell me. If I say, "Who's the president of your local school board," I get blank stares. If I say "Name three federal legislators." Easy. "Name three legislators at the city level. Give me three city council members. Can't do it.

We can have a whole lot more impact locally than we can nationally.

If we're talking about having revivals, it's an interesting thing about revivals. There are no national revivals.

George Whitefield
1714-1770

The Great Awakening, we think it's a national revival, and the reason we think it's a national revival is we see what happened with George Whitefield. What this guy did was he delivered about 34 years of preaching, 18,000 sermons and 80% of all Americans physically heard him preach a sermon.

How is that possible? He was a chaplain in Georgia. He got on his horse in Georgia, and he rode to Maine, which was then part of Massachusetts. He rode to Maine as far north as you could go in America, and he preached the gospel in every town he went through.

Then he turned around and rode from Maine back to Georgia where he was a chaplain. But he took a different route, preaching every town he went through. Then when he got to Georgia, he turned around and rode back to Maine.

He did it seven times, 34 years, 18,000 sermons. The reason 80% of Americans physically heard him preach his sermons, because he's in 80% of the towns in America. I mean, that's where he went. What happened was when a revival would break out in a local town, it would be the local clergy that would keep it going.

It's the same thing when you look at the American War of Independence. If you try to name the battles, we can come up with three or four usually.

The British would come town to town, and the people would rise up and say, "No, you're not going to do that here and we're going to make sure you don't do it here."

- The leader of the Battle of Lexington was Pastor Jonas Clark, who took 70 guys from his church out there to face the 700 British.

- The leader of the Battle of North Concord is Reverend William Emerson, who took 400 guys to stop the British coming over the bridge.

- The leader of the Road to Boston, there were 4,500 people that showed up and they were led by pastors like Benjamin Boss and Payson Phillips.

- When you get to Battle of Bunker Hill, it was Joseph Willard who said, "Well I got two companies here in the congregation. Let's go get with the others. We'll defend Boston."
- It was all local, and that's where we win the American War for Independence.

There's three requirements to be a voter in the United States.

There's three requirements to be a voter in the United States.

1. Eighteen years old

2. Legal citizen

3. Registered.

65.3% of American adults are registered to vote. We have more than 100 million American adults who have said, "I don't care what happens to the country."

About 40 million professing evangelical believers are not register to vote. So, they can't even be salt and light even if they wanted to.

The last 11 presidential elections, the average voter turnout is 54%, but that's 54% of registered voters. That's 54% of 65.3%, which means only 36% of adults vote for president and takes half of that to win, 18%.

One fifth of the country!

In the last 11 presidential elections, one out of five Americans has chosen the president. Four out of five did not choose the president.

In the last 21 off-year elections, the voter turnout has been 38%, but that's 38% of 65%, which means 26% actually vote for governor and senator. So 13% determine the governor.

On the local level, the average voter turnout at the local level is only 6%, but that's 6% of 65%, which is the registered voters, which means your actual voter turned out is only 4% of adults, and it takes half of that to win, which is 2%.

Why this is important.

The City of Los Angeles is larger than the population of 23 separate individual states. So Eric Garcetti, mayor of Los Angeles, is like being governor in 23 states. Eric Garcetti brags about the fact that he was elected with 2.9% of the vote.

He was extremely faith hostile.
Everything else is essential, but congregations are not. Pot shops are essential. Liquor shops essential. Big box stores essential. Worship centers, definitely not.

Houston, is larger than 20 separate states. It's the fourth largest city in the nation. They elected Annise Parker mayor with 3.3% of the vote.

Annise Parker was the first openly lesbian mayor of Houston and she passed a city law
that says, "If you say marriage is between a man and woman that is now a hate

and I'm going after you," and she did. She went after a bunch of Houston pastors, subpoenaed 17 different forms of communication. I want to see all your text messages, all your emails, everything.

Fort Worth is the thirteenth's largest city in the United States. Six years ago, the school board in Fort Worth said, "We're going to let kids choose whatever bathroom they want, whatever locker room they want, and whatever shower they want. We're just not going to do genders in Fort Worth schools anymore."

The Secretary of Education for President Obama, Arnie Duncan said, "What a brilliant idea." So, they came out with a plan that says, any school that gets federal funding can't do gender. That's 97% of the public schools in America.

The president of the school board who came up with this was elected with 1,182 votes. So, I looked in the district where he ran I found one congregation, a Bible-believing evangelical congregation that had more than 3000 registered adult voters.

Bentonville, Arkansas. This is a hometown of Walmart. It's a town of 40,000 people. There's a Christian lady there that said, "You're not going to do this in our town. I'm running for school board." She ran and she got elected. In that town of 40,000 people there were a total of 35 votes cast for the school board.

There are three institutions biblically that God gave us. Family first, easy. God made Adam, made Eve. They had children. God said, "This is good."

The second institution God created was that of civil government. When Noah got off the flood in Genesis 9, God gave him seven civil laws. They're called the Noahide Laws. This is the first recorded instance of civil government being organized into human history.

In those laws, God says, "Here's what you do with murderers. Here's what you do with thieves," and it's civil law. So, government came from God in Genesis 9.

A political scientist at the University of Houston documented that the single most cited source by the founding fathers in the Declaration declaring independence, was a book by John Locke. It was called the Two Treatises Government, printed first in 1690.

Locke's Two Treatises of Government references the Bible more than 1500 times.

Dr. Benjamin Rush, was called the Father of Public Schools under the Constitution, because of this piece that he did in 1790.

He said, "The purpose of public schools are threefold. He said, The number one purpose of public schools is to teach students to love and serve God."

"The number two purpose of public schools is to teach students to love and serve their country." He said, "The number three purpose of public schools is to teach students to love and serve their family."

The previous Virginia Governor Northam, had a problem: they had kids that were surviving abortions. They passed a law that says if a child survives an abortion, were going to go ahead and let that child “die comfortably.”

The governor of Maryland said, “We're going to have abortions up to 28 days after a child is born”

In Virginia 312 congregations got engaged. Leadership said, 'You find every single person in your congregation, and make sure they're registered to vote, and make sure they go vote biblical values. You don't have to tell them who to vote for.'

So, they got 77,000 people registered who had never before participated in elections, and it's an interesting thing. Youngkin got elected with a margin of 65,000.

In Michigan last week they just found a guy who voted twice in 2020, which is not good. But the dude was born in 1850. He went through the Civil War, and he voted twice in 2020.

The Virginia list of voters they got, of 200 names on the voter's roll, the top 67 names on the voter's roll, they found an obituary for.

There's actually 35,000 names on Michigan's voter roll that are dead, that have been voting in recent elections.

In Denver, Colorado Springs 1500 congregations got organized in Colorado, and they took 78 school boards including four school boards in Colorado Springs, including Denver.

In Fort Worth, they won 20 out of 21. Five weeks ago in Miami-Dade County they won 25 out of 30 in Miami-Dade County. This is going on all over the nation. So, changes has happened, but it's going to get healthy from the bottom up.

In the fight for control of the Senate, the three closest contests are the races in Georgia, Nevada and Pennsylvania. The party that can win 2 of these 3 races is virtually certain to gain the majority.

Here's where things stand with five days to go:

In Georgia, Republican challenger Herschel Walker leads Democrat incumbent Raphael Warnock by 1.6% in the RealClearPolitics polling average.

Republican challenger Adam Laxalt leads Democrat incumbent Catherine Cortez Masto by 1.9% in Nevada

And Democrat John Fetterman leads Republican Dr. Mehmet Oz by 1.2% in Pennsylvania

Welcome Video - Real Messiah

There have been revival movements in America in the past that had one particular hotspot to which people made pilgrimage. A prominent example would be the Azusa Street Revival in Los Angeles (which began in 1906), helping to birth the modern Pentecostal-Charismatic movement, which now numbers more than 600,000 to a million adherents worldwide.

More recently, from 1995-2000, believers from more than 130 nations traveled to the Brownsville Revival in Pensacola, Florida, and missionaries were sent out from there (through the ministry school that was raised up) to many nations.

In 1801 during the Second Great Awakening in America, in what was called the Cane Ridge Revival, an onlooker described what he saw as 20,000 people from the sparsely populated frontier region came together for a 6-day camp meeting.

Hebrides Revival 1949-1953

I do not see an exact repeat of this coming. Instead, I see thousands of hubs across the country. I see thousands of watering holes where people come to repent and get right with God, to be refreshed and renewed, to be saved and filled and delivered.
